CADETS HAVE GOOD TEAM

Football Prospects Are Bright—French Is Star Player.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Broad grins wrinkle the faces of the Cadets every time they think of the 1921 season. Last year's reverses are forgotten by the bright prospects of success on the gridiron this fall.

The Navy is already marked down as a victim of the 1921 Army machine, and the game with the sailors is the only thing that counts with the soldiers.

Head Coach Daley has intact the team of last year. That means that rudimentary football will not be necessary in the early stages of training, and that team work can be accomplished to the maximum.

The brilliant French is expected to be the greatest star of the year. He scored 93 points in seven games last year, and with a better running machine this season he is almost sure to do at least as well.

The backfield is expected to be one of the best and fastest on the eastern gridiron, and the whole team, with such stars as French, Willide, Greene, Bredster and Davidson, ought to make a great record with a schedule that gives the soldiers the greatest opportunity of history to bid for a championship.

The schedule starts off with two double headers on successive Saturdays, and it includes the regular feature game with Notre Dame, an innovation in the way of a trip to New Haven for a game with Yale and a second intersectional contest with Wabash.

The schedule complete is:
New Hampshire and Springfield, Oct. 1; Middlebury and Lebanon Valley, Oct. 8; Wabash, Oct. 15; Yale, Oct. 22; Susquehanna, Oct. 29; Notre Dame, Nov. 5; Villa Nova, Nov. 12; Navy, Nov. 26.

EVEN TENNIS PLAYERS DO IT

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen stops between play at Forest Hill, L. I., to powder her nose. This proves—well, now, what does it prove? Mlle. Lenglen, tennis champion of Europe, came from France to take part in the U. S. women's championship matches at Forest Hill.

Golf Trains M. U. Students in Observing the Honor System

Golf is good training for University students in observing the honor system—maybe!

Saturday afternoon a student with brisk step and nicely shined clubs approached the gateway to the University Golf Club, and in happy anticipation was already brandishing his driver.

"Hey there, you got a card?" came the query from the groundskeeper.

"Card? No."

"Then you don't play here, Mr. Clevenger just told me to let no one in unless he had a card."

"Well now, Mr. Clevenger is a very good friend of—"

"That don't go—no card, no golf."

"But the secretary's office is closed and I can't pay the fee for the card."

"Can't help that. No card—no golf."

The student walked disconsolately back toward Academic Hall and stopped at the Palmis. He had a fever for golf and only ninety cents of his month's allowance left. But where there is a will—if it pertains to golf—there is a way.

So went back to try his luck on the groundskeeper again.

"Did you get a card?"

"Why-er-no. The office was closed and I can't get one, but I talked to Mr. Cowan and he said tell you to let me play today, and Monday I'll pay my fee. I would have brought you a note from him, but I-er-talked to him over the phone."

"And so he said you could play?"

"Oh sure, it's all right."

"We'll, guess you can go this time."

Again, it is good training in this way: Horace and James were ready to tee for the first hole of a match. They had not played together for a long while. Neither one could make the nine holes in less than fifty strokes.

"What you been playing it in lately, James?"

"Oh, about forty," as he wished his club gracefully and to fro over the ball.

"That's all! What's the bet on this match?"

"Oh, whatever you like, Horace."

"Well, I'll bet you a Sunday dinner you don't play the course in less than fifty."

James thought a while. "No-o," very slowly, "I was just vaccinated yesterday."

AQUATIC SPORT IS SEEN HERE

Varsity Wins on Wet Field by an 18 to 7 Score—Men Show Fight.

Rollins Field in the disguise of a mill pond, a crowd of 2500 men and women spectators, the former in shirt sleeves giving it the air of the world series baseball throng, rather than of a football contest, furnished the setting of the annual Varsity-Freshmen football game Saturday afternoon. True to tradition the Varsity won, but only after Phelan's men had convinced the throng that they were equally adept at aquatic sports and mud spilling sports as well as football tactics.

The Freshmen furnished the only thrill of the afternoon when Musgrave fumbled the pigskin when being tackled a few feet from his own goal, allowing Adams a freshman participant to capture it and lug it some 95 yards to his own goal for a touchdown, the only score for the Maynor coached eleven. The final result was 18-7.

The freshmen team will do. That was the verdict, expressed universally among the spectators that filed away from the field. That the varsity didn't have much chance to show its real worth was apparent. They demonstrated that in ankle-deep mud and water, they could handle the ball without an over dose of fumbling, that they could not keep their feet in attempted end runs and that forward passes were fruitless. The audience did not see "Chuck" Lewis and Brutus Hamilton in action and was naturally disappointed. That these athletes would have shown no better than the others, under the conditions however is quite certain and it would have been foolish to take a chance on either sustaining an injury.

Allan Lincoln, the burly fullback was in his element. Wallowing in mud until Missouri loam completely covered his 200 pound frame from his headgear to his cleated shoes, he managed to plow through the opposition's line with ease.

Eb Lewis, Knight, Bundchen and other members of the backfield started with almost equal brilliancy.

With indications pointing to better weather for the coming week Coaches Phelan and Jones have outlined a stiff program for their charges this week, in anticipation of the opening game of the season with the Oklahoma Aggies Saturday afternoon.

Last Saturday Maulbetsch, the former Michigan star led his outfit to a 53-0 score over Southwestern Normal. He was enabled to win this decisive verdict by the fact that he used practically three teams in the fracas. Stillwater aggregation is one that the Missourians can well afford to fear and many boosters of the Oklahoma eleven have gone so far as to say that the Tigers will be trimmed by the Southerners next Saturday.

It is doubtful if there is any confidence in the Old Gold and Black camp as the athletes realize full well that Maulbetsch is a great mentor and has a fairly well rounded camp of gridiron warriors. For the past several seasons the Aggies have made a reputation on the gridiron that would vie well with that of many teams in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Coach Phelan announced Saturday afternoon following the game, that there would be scrimmage the first four days of this week with Coach Maynor's freshmen.
